

CAMDEN COUNTY BAR FOUNDATION EIVIND H. BARTH, JR. MEMORIAL AWARD

Eivind Barth (who usually was referred to as “Ave”) graduated from Collingswood High School, Temple University and Temple Law School. He served in the U.S. Army JAG Corps and was active in the United Methodist Church, the Brooks-Irvine Memorial Football Club, the Camden County YMCA and Tavistock Country Club. Eivind was a leader within the Camden County Bar, serving as an officer and ultimately as president of the Association and also as a trustee of the Camden County Bar Foundation. He spent much of his practice in his hometown of Collingswood with the firm of Finnegan & Barth.

SCHOLARSHIP CRITERIA

A scholarship of $1,000 to be given to a law student attending either the Rutgers-Camden School of Law or the Temple Law School. Applicants should show a bona fide intention to practice law in Camden County and also demonstrate genuine financial need as well as scholastic achievement.
